

Ohio Counties in Earnest

On Saturday evening Rev. T. B. Hill, one of the largest and most influential farmers in Kentucky, returned from Adams and Seida counties, Ohio, where he delivered convincing arguments and did effective work in the interest of the co-operative marketing association. Farmers realized their condition and the way out they had never seen before and were prompt in exerting their rights.

Adams county went over the top good and strong and Seida county was quick to come forward with 50 per cent. This county will follow the example of Adams county.

Rev. Hill returned to Ohio yesterday and will deliver his first speech in Brown county today and we expect to have a flattering report from this county also. Rev. Hill is hooked for speeches until the time limit, November 15th, and to this work will give his entire time. Things look good in Ohio and it now seems that farmers and growers will present an almost solid front.

Rail Strike Called Off

The big rail strike scheduled for October 30, was averted Friday night when leaders of the switchmen, trainmen, conductors, engineers and firemen at a joint meeting adopted resolutions withdrawing authorization of a walkout and officials of the railroad telegraphers' organization announced they would take similar action. These were the only unions which had authorized a strike.

Smiles of relief were written on the faces of members of the Federal Railway Labor Board when they met Friday to clear up the many details of the cancelled railroad strike. Hundreds of messages of congratulations poured into the board's quarters.

The railroad brother chiefs called the result a victory for the men because the board conceded no further wage cuts will be considered until after the pending questions before the board are cleared. Moreover, the action on the question of a change in rules is unlikely to become an immediate issue.

Centre Defeats Harvard 6 to 0

The south was victorious at the Harvard stadium Saturday. Men from Centre College of Kentucky, "Praying Colonels" and football players of high degree, with "Bo" McMillan driving them on, defeated the Harvard eleven by a score of 6 to 0.

The representatives of the smallest college on the Crimson schedule had accomplished what no other team had done in forty years—defeated Harvard in an intersectional game. It was five years since the Crimson had met defeat on its own or any other field.

The victory belonged to the redoubtable "Bo" McMillan, backed by his mates on an alert and aggressive team. A well knit defensive line held Harvard safe.

The lone touchdown was made by McMillan in the third quarter on a 23-yard run. Centre won the game at straight football, only attempting four forward passes. The Kentuckians outplayed Harvard at every stage of the game and was were clearly the better team.

MATRON DIES

Mrs. Carrie Nettie Hays, wife of James Hays, died Sunday at her home on the Levee pike near this city. AMERICAN LEGION BENEFIT

Tickets are now out and on sale for the American Legion Benefit Show, which they will hold at the Tabb Theatre Monday, November 7, matinee and night. This year the legion is to offer the big special production from the Cosmopolitan studios, "The Restless Sex," featuring Marian Davies. Cosmopolitan Productions bear the distinction of producing the past year what is to be conceded the greatest drama the screen ever offered, "Immoresque," and in "The Restless Sex" the same high-class production throughout has been maintained. As previous benefit shows at the Tabb this season have been unusually successful, we hope the public will get behind the legion's benefit for next Monday and assist in making it one of the biggest and most successful shows of the season.

LEWIS MCCLURE DIES

In Search of a Missing Girl

It was early Friday morning a neatly dressed young man appeared in our city deeply interested in a missing young woman of about 20 years of age from the Irvine Telephone Company, where she had been engaged as an operator. The young woman, Miss Roberta Neikirk, left word with her associate operators that she was going to Mt. Sterling, where she had engaged as saleswoman with the Rice & Co., dry goods firm of that place, and the young man said, "I am here to find her. The young woman is the daughter of C. B. Neikirk, 111 Estill avenue, Richmond, Ky." The young man in search said he was assisting the family of the young woman in the search for the missing girl. The young man asked that his name be kept out of print and hut for the reason we promised to do so we would give his name. To our mind it appeared he was a sweetheart of the young girl who, he feared, had eloped with another. The young man did not give up the search here until Saturday, when he left, saying, "Should you get trace of the young woman, wire her father, C. B. Neikirk, 111 Estill avenue, Richmond, Ky." The young woman has a host of friends in Irvine and Richmond who are greatly shocked at her disappearance, and her mother is almost prostrated with grief. Her father is a well-known farmer of Richmond.

FARM AND HOME NEWS FROM OVER KENTUCKY

Many Graves county fields will be protected from leaching and erosion during the coming winter as a result of the increased acreage of cover crops which have been sown, according to a report of County Agent B. H. Mitchell. More than 800 bushels of Rosen rye have been distributed to be used for cover crops and this together with a normal acreage of wheat and a 200 per cent increase in the acreage of sweet clover which will be sown is expected to result in more protection to fields of the county than has ever been the case.

Limestone is receiving special attention from Owen county farmers, a report from County Agent David P. Morris states. More than 600 tons of this material have been crushed in the county as a result of a lime campaign while six farmers will co-operate in conducting demonstrations to show its value in increasing crop yields.

Carroll county farmers are gradually eliminating the scrub breeding animals from their farms, seven more of them recently having enrolled in the better sire and better stock movement by County Agent G. C. Rountt. They have agreed to use nothing but purebred animals in all their breeding work.

Marion county farmers co-operating with County Agent H. J. Childress are making plans for a two-day poultry show to be held November 7 and 8. More than $140 in premiums have already been offered by interested banks and commercial concerns in the county. At least 200 birds are expected to be on exhibit.

Members of the Washington County Poultry Association are making plans for one of the most successful years they have ever had, a report from County Agent R. M. Heath states. They recently purchased 10 Barred Plymouth Rock chickens, including six cockerels and four pullets, for $125.

Ashland wheat, the pedigree variety developed at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, has proved popular with Marion county farmers this fall, nine of them having purchased a total of more than 127 bushels, according to a report of County Agent H. J. Childress. Each of the nine men used acid phosphate in connection with the sowing of the new variety.

Court News

Judge W. R. Shackelford, Richmond, was here Monday entering orders in the cases of Mary E. Cockrell vs. William Cockrell and Ethel Wilson vs. Espy Wyatt, in which he is acting as special judge.

The case of Mrs. James E. Gay, charged with being of unsound mind, was brought up in court before Judge H. R. Prewitt yesterday. A jury was secured and a number of witnesses were examined, the case being continued until Friday on account of a death in the family. Mrs. Gay had recently filed suit for divorce against her husband and had attached his property. Mr. Gay then instituted lunacy proceedings against his wife. The case, on account of the prominence of the parties, is attracting widespread attention.

The case of Sam Terry and Matt Mays, of Farmers, charged with transporting whisky to this city, was brought up in court here today and is now being heard.

RAIN DAMPENS SPIRITS OF HALLOWEEN REVELERS

Rain last night dampened the ardor of youthful revelers and did more to suppress the exuberant Halloween spirit than the entire police force.

There were spooks who refused to let the dampness spoil their fun. Porch swings disappeared. Door bells were answered by householders after they had rung loudly only to find that the sprite had vanished in the darkness. Practically every store window had to be cleaned this morning because the goblins had inscribed weird, meaningless characters upon them, using paraffin generously.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. Hombs, who have been residing on Holt avenue, have moved to the H. B. Turner bungalow on West Clay street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Prewitt and Mrs. B. P. Jeffries have moved from the country to their new home on West High street recently purchased of Miss Nannie E. Reed.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT

James and William Nolen and two Johnson boys and a young man by the name of Foster, all of Stanton, were the occupants of a big Studebaker machine which was wrecked on the Prewitt pike about 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. The machine, which was being driven at a high rate of speed, crashed in between a tree and fence at the railroad crossing near W. H. Prewitt's, throwing the men out and wrecking the car. William Nolen was badly hurt and was brought to the Mary Chiles Hospital in this city, suffering from severe cuts on the head and body. The other occupants of the car escaped with slight injuries.

Three-year-old Virgil Jones fell 25 feet from the third story window of the McKee apartments. Her chin was badly lacerated and her head crushed, but she will survive.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT MARKS SUCCESS OF FULTON FAIR

Aside from the fact that it was featured by outstanding exhibits of farm and home products the recent community fair held in Fulton county by persons who co-operated with County Agent O. L. Cunningham was probably one of the most unique ever held in the state. Carpenters in the county contributed their services toward building pens and other necessary equipment, the town hand contributed music for the event, the parent-teachers' association provided food for visitors at the fair and citizens contributed the premium money. The fair was distinctly a community event which was successful because of the spirit and co-operation shown. County Agent Cunningham reported.

FAYETTE FARMERS OUTLINE EXTENSIVE LINES OF WORK

Fayette county farmers co-operating with County Agent W. R. Gahbert and the extension division of the College of Agriculture in outlining their work for the next three months have arranged to give attention to practically all phases of farming. They will continue junior agricultural club work, enroll their flocks in an egg-laying contest to be conducted over the state, complete the organization of a co-operative purebred dairy sire association and keep records on their dairy herds with the idea of weeding out unprofitable cows and balancing rations so as to obtain greater milk production.

Four community programs will be built and lecture courses involving the use of lantern slides and motion pictures to show the different farm practices given in five communities. Demonstrations showing the value of sweet clover and limestone in improving soils and those showing the value of tankage and the hogging down of soybeans and corn in producing pork will be among the important lines of work carried on to improve the agricultural condition of the county.

ONWARD, TOBACCO GROWERS

A bundle of sticks fastened tightly together was the symbol of the old Roman empire, which was the greatest and most powerful state that had existed up to that time. Greece gave the world beauty and philosophy. Judea's offering was religion. Rome gave the world an example of the efficiency of organization. Even the arch, practically Rome's only contribution to architecture, symbolized as powerfully as the fasces the dependence of one unit upon another and the strength which the group derived from the adherence of units to each other.

The hurley co-operative marketing plan is nothing more than an organization by which the farmers of the state group themselves into a bundle of sticks not only for protection, but for the ability to obtain for all what each man individually cannot obtain for himself. It is a mobilization of forces a gathering of men with common interests and identical aims, a highly effective army as distinguished from a scattered and ineffective force, each man fighting for himself against an organized enemy and receiving no help from his neighbors.

In somewhat less than a month the co-operative plan must go over the top. Between now and November 15, 75,000,000 pounds of tobacco must be pledged to make certain the success of the movement. If on November 15, the hurley association has in its possession pledges for 175,000,000 pounds of tobacco, it means that Kentucky growers have achieved the progress of one hundred years practically over night. It will mean that the state has opened the door to the knock of opportunity, and that the farmers have done themselves and their progeny a great service.

It cannot be truthfully said that Kentucky in subscribing fully to the co-operative movement will have done a bold thing or will have taken a breathless, and uncertain leap. To take advantage of a principle thousands of years old and convert it into capital is not a breath-taking venture. Particularly is this true when it is considered that this age-old principle of organization is right now a successful operation in the United States, not only with respect to government, but in relation to agriculture.

Kentucky is merely following the lead of successful farmers in many parts of the land. It is being guided by such experts as Aaron Sapiro. The path is not strewn with dangerous crevices. It is broad and true. Only the most deadly conservatism can daunt Kentucky farmers from stepping on the highway illuminated and made smooth by growers of various products in other parts of the land.

Kentucky is conservative. But it is also intelligent. The intelligent conservative never stands still. He goes forward. Pledges for 100,000,000 pounds of Kentucky's staple product already in the hands of the hurley association answer effectively any doubts as to Kentuckians' desire to progress. Those pledges are a cogent argument for those who are hesitating and undecided.

No flag-waving need be necessary to insure the success of the co-operative movement. It is a business proposition which is designed to bring prosperity to the state and contentment to its children.

It is there to take or leave. If taken the Kentucky farmer will not risk a year's hard work in the fields to receive whatever price the great tobacco buyer may see fit to give him for his product.

He and his neighbors, forming a solid phalanx, will be sure to get the best price obtainable. If left, the yearly drudgery in the tobacco fields will continue to be a gamble, a hazardous undertaking, and one cannot gamble with the bread and butter of this and succeeding generations.—Courier-Journal.

Over a quarter of a million well-known men and women from different parts of the county have signed written endorsements for Tanlac. Land & Priest.

Consider the Old Hen-

She doesn't quit scratching when worms are scarce

1 We'll say she don't!

1 On the other hand when the pickin' is poor she does more scratching than ever before, going over the back yard with a fine tooth scratcher, so to speak—and more than that—she invades new territory and opens up new fields of endeavor.

1 How many of us can learn a lesson from the homely hen and when business is bad, instead of sitting idly by waiting for it to "pick up again," proceed to do more advertising—more intensive advertising—better advertising—than ever before?

1 And not only that, can't we, too, open up new fields—reach out farther with direct-by-mail, newspaper and other forms of sane publicity, and, like the old hen, increase our scratching radius?

1 We stand ready with a battery of presses, linotype machines, paper and ink, and more important yet, the brains necessary to operate them in the successful production of high-class printed advertising.

1 In other words, we furnish the scratcher.

1 Here's to the old hen; long may she scratch!

1 And may we have sense enough to profit by her example!

MOVIES PROVE WORTH IN HELPING FARMERS

Moving pictures are to have an important part in carrying information on timely subjects to farmers in the future if the interest shown by Kentucky farms in a film now being displayed over the state by the College of Agriculture is taken as an indication of the approval given this form of agricultural extension work. The film is entitled "Out of the Shadows" and is being displayed in the interests of the cattle tuberculosis eradication work being carried on in Kentucky. It is one of several being used by the college extension division to carry timely information to farmers of the state.

After arousing unusual interest among Fayette county farmers in the eradication of tuberculosis the film was put on the road, the first showing being made in Pulaski county. More than 725 farmers and their wives attended the four shows held there by T. P. Polk, extension veterinarian from the college, and displayed a keen interest in the subject it presented. Many of them were compelled to walk long distances in order to reach the place where the shows were held, Mr. Polk reported. Two hundred and fifty farmers and their wives attended one of the shows while the average attendance for the four meetings was more than 181 persons.

The film is one of typical country life whose heroine, a young girl, contracts tuberculosis from a pet cow in the family herd. The picture points out the dangers which are encountered by farmers who fail to have their animals tested and by means of the different events portrayed in the life of the family shows how farmers should go about having their herds placed on the accredited herd plan.

"Out of the Shadows" has a special message for Kentucky farmers in view of the fact that Kentucky has the fourth highest death rate from tuberculosis in the United States, this disease annually causing the death of 198 persons out of each 1,000 in the state's population, according to Mr. Polk. In 1920 more than 19,220 cases of tuberculosis were reported in the state, from which 3,240 deaths resulted. In view of the fact that statistics show that one-third of the tuberculosis in children is of bovine origin, this disease is an extremely serious one and one that should receive the attention of farmers, Mr. Polk said.

The film also has been shown in Lincoln county. During the week of October 31 to November 5 it will be shown in Boyle county and the following week in Crittenden county.

LET MONTGOMERY COUNTY DO HER PART

Upon the mothers and school children of Kentucky rests the fate of thousands of homeless and friendless children throughout the state, as only through completion of the cottage village at Lyndon can these little waifs be rescued from squalor and crime by the Kentucky Children's Home Society. Funds for the cottage village now under construction are exhausted and plans for the removal of the Kentucky Children's Home Society by December 1 from the present quarter on Baxter avenue to the rural home will be halted unless the appeal for money is answered by the mother of Kentucky.

The call of the country has echoed throughout the crowded city home for the 100 children that fill the old row of former residences which have been converted for many years into the quarters of the institution.

Two of the buildings of the cottage village are nearly completed, but the workmen must lay down their tools, the children must forget the happiness they had longed for, if the appeal fails. George L. Sehon, superintendent of the society, is asking the mothers and school children for sufficient funds to complete the village, in order that the future home may be dedicated to the school children of today.

More than 3,800 children have been taken in by the society since its organization 25 years ago and today in every community of the state are men and women among the representative citizens, who owe their success in life to the society which saved them from the evil environment of the county poor house.

More thousands of these little ones, destitute and friendless, await longingly for the doors of the Kentucky Children's Home Society to open to them and now with pitiful appeal they knock at the hearts of humanity for a chance. It is divulged by statistics compiled by the United States census that 90 per cent of the inmates of the prisons are individuals who had training for no work whatever. Illiterates compose practically the entire army of our tramps, a tremendously expensive group. One out of forty of the entire host of fallen women in the United States has had no training in the matter of trade or profession. But we could go on with figures indefinitely.

All of these conditions which add to the burden of public tax and menace to public health are corrected in part by the Kentucky Children's Home Society, which takes in the little waifs, trains them, schools the maid places them in households where they are generally adopted into the family.

The society accepts only those children committed to its care by the county judges of the state, thus relieving the various counties of their care and putting the little ones in surroundings that work for better citizenship.

From Montgomery county 48 children have been received into the Kentucky Children's Home Society, whereas the county fiscal court has contributed $899.90 to its upkeep in the quarter century of its existence. The quota from Montgomery county is $953.72 and now it is urged that every measure carried out to raise this sum at once, in order that the work of the society may not be halted.

Receipts of cream during the week have been on a liberal scale. Consumption of butter is reported large and prices have shown a slight advance during the week.

Fresh eggs are in light supply, with prices ruling higher.

There has been a liberal movement of live poultry, and it has been necessary to transfer part of the surplus to storage. Prices generally are unchanged.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the People of Montgomery and Bath Counties:

We have opened an oil distributing station at Mt. Sterling for the distribution of BLUE GRASS GASOLINE, MOVOLINE MOTOR OIL and BLUE GRASS KEROSENE, with John M. Gatewood as agent.

Ours are strictly Kentucky products. They are made exclusively from our own Big Sinking Kentucky Crude. They are made by us at our own refinery located at Lexington, and by our own home labor. We pursue the policy of "Live and Let Live," by making all of our purchases in the territory in which we operate.

The money which we receive for our products is deposited in a local bank and our purchases for our company are made in the towns in which we operate. We employ local men as our agents; therefore, we do not pursue the policy of taking all the money out of a community possible and leave none. 100 per cent of the money spent with us remains in Kentucky.

A great deal of the money spent by us for crude oil is paid to residents of Montgomery, Clark and other Kentucky counties.

We make our own products and know their quality and are so advantageously situated, that we can profitably make them of superior uniform quality.

We have our own boats and barges on the Kentucky river and our own pipeline from the river to our refinery by which we transport our crude oil from the field. This enables us to save vast sums in freight which we share with the public in quality. This is why enjoy such wide popularity. We assure the public that we will at all times give them a square deal in every way and at all times give them SUPERIOR UNIFORM QUALITY and prompt courteous service.

We feel that in John Gatewood we have a man who will deal with both ourselves and the public honestly and courteously, and is worthy and deserving to share in the business in this territory.

In conclusion, we promise the people of Montgomery and Bath counties products of high grade uniform quality, prompt courteous service and a full appreciation of a share of the business in our line.

Very respectfully,

Great Southern Refining Company

HAS PARTING WORDS

The pastor of the Baptist church, Rev. R. C. Goldsmith, was suffering last Sunday so that he could not deliver his final message to his people prior to his leaving for Shelbyville this morning. The retiring greatly beloved pastor told with quivering lips of the kind treatment he has received from this people and how he appreciated it. He also gave an invitation to his members to call and see him at his work in the beautiful city of Shelbyville, just on the border edge of Louisville. In parting with Brother Goldsmith we transfer to Shelbyville a most excellent gospel preacher and public speaker of whom they will be proud on any occasion. And of his wife Shelbyville can say with us, here is a pastor's wife that can fill with praiseworthy distinction any place that may come to her; to visit the sick, to lend the women's meetings, to lead in prayer service, to teach the Bible class, to perform at a pipe organ or at a piano, to render sacred solos or make volume music with a trained choir. Some of her gifts. Such is Pastor Goldsmith's helper in his work. The Mt. Sterling church, is, therefore, passing over to the Shelbyville church a pastor and his wife rich in gifts and amply qualified for the work to which they have been called. The prayers and best wishes of a loyal congregation follow them into a field from which we hope for greater results than have been manifested here. Years may pass, generations may come and go, yet traces of the labors of these saints will be such that we will know they passed this way.

WHY IS IT?

Just at this time the leading press of the Republican party are saying, "Not to the discredit of the Democratic nominees, but the men we offer for public service are gentlemen of experience, trained for service," when they know they are financial wrecks. It is just party, that's all, and we would say to the Democratic party, be ye not deceived, vote the straight Democratic ticket.

WITHOUT MONEY DESIRE; TO BE CALLED DEAD AGAIN

Few instances, if any, have ever come to the attention of the Court of Appeals in which such a total disregard of money is exhibited as in the case of Jaffa Weare, who, knowing that he has inherited $4,034.69 with interest from 1909, has made no claim for his estate. Weare was one of seven heirs to the estate of Jared Weare, his brother, who died in Fleming county in 1909. The other heirs are Jerome, Jacob, Jnhaza, Jankin, Jacova and Jaza.

The record in the case disclosed that Jaffa Weare left his home in Fleming county in 1882. He was legally declared dead, but was located in the spring of 1911, when his brother, Jacob Weare, by accident learned that he was at Malvern, Arkansas, and went to that city to inform him of the legacy. Jaffa said he would probably come to Flemingsburg that fall to get the money.

From that time to the present nothing has been heard of him. In the meantime his sister Jacova has died, leaving him an additional sum of $2,459.24. The case came to the Court of Appeals Monday to determine what shall be done with the money, inasmuch as some of the heirs claim that he is still living and that the estate cannot be divided until he is legally declared to be dead again.

The Appellate Court says that in order to divide the money due Jaffa Weare, from his sister Jacova's estate he must be legally declared dead again. He will probably be the only man ever legally declared dead twice.

850 DISASTER DEATH TOLL FOR ONE YEAR

Red Cross Gives $1,871,000 Relief When 65,000 Families Are Made Homeless.

Forty-three disasters, resulting in the death in the United States of 850 persons and the injury of 2,500 called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,871,000 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, says an announcement based upon the fourth coming annual report of the Red Cross. These disasters caused property damage estimated at $30,000,000, affected sixty-seven communities and rendered 65,000 families homeless.

The year's disasters were of varying types, including several which previously had never been thought of as falling within that classification. The Red Cross furnished relief in seventeen fires of magnitude, five floods, seven tornadoes or cyclones, one devastating storm, three explosions, including the one in Wall street; one building accident, two typhoid epidemics, the most serious being that at Salem, Ohio, which affected 9 per cent of the population; one smallpox epidemic, in the republic of Haiti; one train wreck, the race riot at Tulsa, Okla.; the famine in China, emergency relief in famine among the Indians of Alaska, the grasshopper plague in North Dakota and an earthquake in Italy.

Pueblo Most Serious

By far the most severe of the disasters in the United States during the period covered by the Red Cross report was the Pueblo flood early in June, 1921. The rehabilitation problem confronting the Red Cross in Pueblo was one of the most difficult in recent years. When the first news of the horror was flashed throughout the country, the American Red Cross National Headquarters responded with a grant of $105,000 for relief work. Governor Shoup of Colorado, appreciating the long and successful experience of the Red Cross in organizing disaster relief work, placed the entire responsibility for the administration of relief in its hands.

In response to appeals from President Harding, Governor Shoup and other governors of western states and through local chapters of the Red Cross and other community organizations, public-spirited citizens brought the total contributed for Pueblo's rehabilitation to more than $325,000.

The terrible havoc wrought by the flood waters is a matter of record. More than 2,300 homes were affected and 7,351 persons were left homeless. Estimates of $500,000 as an absolute minimum for rehabilitation were made by Red Cross officials in charge of the relief work.

Fast Work in Wall Street

The Wall street explosion was notable in that relief workers of the Red Cross were on the scene twenty minutes after the disaster occurred. The race riot at Tulsa also was unique in disaster relief annals in that outside of a small emergency relief fund contributed by the Red Cross, the only relief measures outside the city consisted of the service of social workers, nurses and a trained executive whose object was to assist local forces in directing their own efforts.

In decided contrast with the previous year, only one tornado assumed the proportions of a major disaster. This occurred on April 15, in the border sections of Texas and Arkansas with the city of Texarkana as the center. The significant feature of this disaster relief work was the fact that it covered so much rural territory as to make necessary a large number of relief workers.

The famine in China, necessitating relief expenditures totalling more than $1,000,000 by the American Red Cross was by far the most serious of the foreign disasters in which the Red Cross gave aid.

Builds Up Its Machinery

In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 325 chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 3,402 active chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 24.

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 160 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,276 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

Tabb Theatre Program

Wednesday, November 2—Wm. Fox Picture Corp. presents the screen's most popular character actor—

WILLIAM FARNUM
in "His Greatest Sacrifice"

This feature recently advertised, but not screened. Final episode of the "Avening Arrow" serial. Holmes Trvelogues from the world's greatest traveler. A 3-picture program.

Friday—November 4—Select Pictures offers

"A Divorce of Convenience"

a Select 6-reel special with Owen Moore. Episode No. 3 of the true American history serial, "Winners of the West." Pathe News. A 3-picture program.

Change in program for Saturday—

Monday—November 7—The American Legion will present at the Tabb—

a big special Cosmopolitan production, featuring Marinn Davies. Tickets now on sale by members of the Legion. The proceeds from this benefit show are to be used to assist the Legion in maintaining their post for the ensuing year. By buying ticket you will assist the great cause and help yourself to two hours of good entertainment of the better kind. Added attraction, a Christie two-reel comedy; also "Thunderbolt Jack" serial.

Please note that we have discontinued our Tuesday and Thursday shows. This change has become necessary owing to lack of patronage, and will be in force until further notice. We regret to be obliged to make this change, but as we have kept the house open on the above days (benefit shows excepted) until our business has reached the point where if the exchanges had given us our pictures gratis the business we have been receiving would not meet our house expenses. Our Paramount and First National service has made such a poor showing and as their pictures are considered among the best and feeling if this service would not appeal to our patrons only to the extent as mentioned it is now useless to try to continue the daily policy at this time.

We hope that the business depression that we have experienced since May will soon pass. The feature picture market of today contains a wealth of some of the finest screen entertainment that has ever been offered and we hope that business will permit the Tabb offering you some of these masterpieces in the near future. As the Love Flower, Humoresque, Midsommer Madness, Behold My Wife, Right to Love and Some Things to Think About did not prove successful, we feel that the time is not now propitious to book such big productions as Way Down East, Deception, The Three Musketeers, the Child Thou Gavest Me, etc., owing to the patronage that late specials offered have received.

Contrary to the general opinion, but nevertheless true, public opinion shapes our policy, for the patronage that you give our different offerings molds all of our future bookings, for if we book a feature that is heralded as a big success in the other towns, and we offer same and it is greeted with most empty seats, we then know that such attraction does not appeal to you and we try not to repeat such an offering, but as all of this season's specials, practically speaking, having proven failures, the present finds us in a position of doubt as to now continuing our past policy. Cheaper service and cheaper prices might attract some, but we feel now as we always have that the majority of our patrons desire only the best, which we hope the near future will prove. Our present bookings cover Paramount, Arternft, First National, Fox, Select, Pathe, Robertson-Cole, Jewell-Universal and Big Feature Rights, which represent the cream of the screen market, a list which we do not know of any town our size being able to offer in quality, price and in as good a theatre as The Tabb.

Any suggestion pertaining to the management of this theatre that you may care to make, I will be pleased to accept if such can be adopted to make The Tabb a better theatre and educational institution. Very truly,

WM. B. SMALL

AMENDMENT NO. 1

(By Fred O. Mayes)

The whole question to be decided in regard to proposed Amendment No. 1 is whether the present method as fixed by the constitution accords to the schools the best possible leadership and administration. If it does then there is no need for change. If it does not then the constitution must first be changed by amendment before the Legislature can have power to fix any other method of selecting the Superintendent of Public Instruction. There is no denying that there are many objections to the present plan. Experience and observation clearly show that. A very large per cent of our peoples taxes go to the support of our schools. We wish that we could get more value received for the money expended in the way of school efficiency and better advantages for the big problem of education of our children. It is very necessary that our schools be run efficiently, economically and wisely. It requires a big man to do this—an executive and an educator. We do not always get such a one. If by good fortune we do get one, by the time he is thoroughly familiar with his duties and his problems his four year term is up and he is ineligible to succeed himself. None of these evils can be remedied without the people voting the proposed amendment. This is merely the first step.

After the amendment is passed the legislature, the chosen representatives of the people, will have the power to create the office and make all laws regarding it. Several methods have been advocated. Some desire the Legislature to create a State Board of Education who will have the power to select the Superintendent. Some advocate giving the power to the Governor to appoint that officer and hold him responsible for his appointment. Others advocate selecting the Superintendent by the people under a non-partisan emblem. This method would no doubt receive a good deal of consideration by the Legislature. The Democratic party in its platform two years ago favored this plan. The Legislature may even decide on some plan not yet thought of. But in any case nothing can be done to improve the condition until the amendment is passed. It seems as if there is all to gain and nothing to lose.

HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

The following item from the Albany Journal will be of interest to Mr. Anderson's friends here: "Among the many new filling stations which have been erected in Albany in the recent past, none is more attractive or more up-to-date than the Anderson Filling Station which S. W. Anderson has just completed and put in operation on the corner of Jackson and Flint streets. The station is substantially built of brick, with a rough stucco finish that makes it especially attractive in appearance. It is modern in every detail, arranged so as to render the quickest and most satisfactory service. On one side are the drive ways for cars to receive gas, oil, water and air. On the other side is the driveway where cars are washed and where the "dope pit" is located, where cars can be thoroughly greased. The arrangement of the Indies rest room in this new filling station is especially attractive. A large comfortably furnished room has been provided. This will be especially convenient for ladies who are touring through the city. Mr. Anderson is receiving congratulations upon the attractiveness and efficiency of his new filling station.

TRUTH—CASH—ONE PRICE

IMPROPER HANDLING CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN FERTILIZERS

Figures showing that more than 50 per cent of the fertility contained in the thousands of tons of farm manure produced annually in Kentucky is lost through improper handling are contained in suggestions on the care and handling of this material which have just been issued by the agronomy department of the College of Agriculture to the farmers of the state. A portion of the many tons produced is deposited on pastures where returns from it are not as great as on cultivated fields, but in spite of this fact the proper conservation of this animal industry by-products is an important phase of profitable farming, according to the suggestions. Kentucky has sufficient livestock to produce 10,000,000 tons of this fertilizer annually which has a value of $40,000,000 based on the results obtained on experiment fields of the state.

Leaving the material stacked in the barnyard where it is exposed to leaching by rains is the one factor responsible for the largest losses of fertility, according to the suggestions. Loose floors in stables and use of an insufficient amount of bedding to absorb liquid materials are other factors which contribute to a waste of the plant food contained in this farm product.

By use of a few ordinary practices much of the loss which is now taking place may be prevented, the suggestions point out. Small expense is required to make stall floors tight and all farmers can use sufficient bedding to absorb the liquid portions which represent one-half the total value of the material, agronomy specialists of the college say. Hauling and spreading the manure rather than placing it in piles as soon as it is removed from the stables represents another good means which farmers can take to prevent losses. When spread on sod land or on a growing crop such as wheat there will be less in the field than anywhere elsewhere.

Spreading the manure on corn and tobacco land is the most profitable use to which the material can be put. Both of these crops need the nitrogen and organic matter which the material contains. Best results are obtained when the manure is spread thinly to cover as many acres as possible. Manure supplemented with acid phosphate is the best fertilizer for poor soils, the suggestions point out.

FARMERS SHOW INTEREST IN EGG LAYING PROJECT

A total of more than 200 farmers in eight counties of the state have already signified their intention of entering their flocks in the winter egg laying project to be conducted by the College of Agriculture and Industries are that more than 1,000 will be in the event before its scheduled starts on November 1, according to J. H. Martin, in charge of the college poultry work.

Counties which will be represented in the project and the probable number of farmers from each one who will enter their flocks follow:

Fayette county, 40; Daviess county, 50; Kenton county 30; Garrard county, 3; Washington county, 100; Fleming county, 15; Morgan county, 30, and Ohio county, 35. Flocks are being enrolled through county agents, more than 50 of whom are expected to enlist co-operators in the project.

Flocks which are entered will be divided into three classes in order to separate the commercial poultrymen from owners of small flocks. These divisions will include one for flocks containing less than 50 females, one containing flocks of 50 to 100 females and one containing the flocks of more than 200 females. The leading flocks in each division will be announced each month.

The project is designed to stimulate interest in the better housing and feeding of poultry during the winter months in order to increase the egg production of flocks of the state. Farmers who enroll will receive timely suggestions and help from the poultry section of the college on the care, feeding and management of their hens.

HOT SCHOOL LUNCH GIVES RURAL PUPILS REAL MEAL

Rural school boys and girls who get no real pleasure and benefit during the winter from eating the cold lunch brought from home can be given real meals by means of the hot school lunch plan which is already being used in many rural schools of the state, according to home economics, at the College of Agriculture. The desirability of at least one hot dish to supplement the cold lunch brought by the children is now generally accepted and the popularity of the plan demonstrated by the rapidly increasing number of schools which are using it. The hot school lunch is of extreme importance in the state in view of the fact that for many years many of the school children have had to work and grow as best they could on little more than two meals a day. The carelessly prepared and hastily eaten cold lunch which takes the place of the noon day meal cannot be expected to do the duty of the substantial dinner which the child should have at noon, the specialists say.

"The school lunch is not just a matter of providing food, but it is a means of teaching boys and girls to eat in a right way the foods which are good for them," according to Circular No. 95, which has been prepared by the college to help rural school teachers in establishing hot school lunches. The publication points out that by means of the lunch children can be taught the proper combinations of food, facts about healthful eating, sanitation and hygiene and good table manners. The lunch also serves the overworked mother in that it reduces the amount of food she must prepare to the lighter sandwiches and fruits or sweets. The circular outlines the organization of the hot school lunch under the headings of equipment, supplies and labor.

serving of hot lunch need not be elaborated. In many country schools the room is heated by a large stove which may be used for cooking and where this is impossible an inexpensive oil stove may be purchased. The circular gives a list of the pieces of equipment necessary in serving a hot lunch to 25 or more a day. Food materials represent the greatest expense connected with the lunch, but this may be met practically by selling the prepared food as nearly at cost as possible. Combinations of inexpensive foods which are nourishing are given in the publication. Interested women in the community, the school teacher, the home demonstration agent and the girls in the school may be used to furnish the necessary labor for preparing and serving the lunch. Circular No. 95 also contains menus which may be used in planning the hot lunch. It may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

Feeble Blood

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood—Liquid and Tablet Form

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to a falling off in the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a blemished complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Advertisement.

UNION FARMERS WILL SHIP CO-OPERATIVELY

Union county farmers are making plans to ship their livestock to market on a co-operative plan following the organization of a county livestock shipping association at a recent meeting attended by 35 farmers, according to D. G. Card, marketing specialist from the College of Agriculture, who spoke at the meeting and outlined a plan of organization. Directors of the new association selected at the meeting were Walter Payne, J. T. Speaks and Clem Hancock. Farmers who attended the organization meeting pledged 60 hogs for the first carload to be shipped under the new plan. The association will have headquarters at Waverly.

Farmers of the county have shipped stock to the market on a co-operative plan prior to the organization of the association and found it a profitable method, according to County Agent A. M. Allen. A saving of 30 to 40 per cent of the shipping costs on each 100 pounds has been saved by the method. The organization of the association is expected to make it possible for the largest number of farmers in the county to market their stock by this method.

CLEAN STRAW IS IMPORTANT IN MULCHING STRAWBERRIES

Strawberry growers who wish to keep their plant beds clean and free from weeds will do well to avoid the use of unclean straw in mulching the beds this fall, specialists on the crop say. Wheat straw is best provided it is free of grain kernels, since these will sprout in the spring and cause extra labor in cleaning out the bed. The straw should be placed from four to six inches deep on the plants, according to N. R. Elliott, of the College of Agriculture. Mulching should not be done until after the first freeze in order that insects may be prevented from hiding in the straw and infesting the plants the following spring and summer.

In case broom sage or crab grass is used to mulch the beds less material should be used than in the

ROWAN COUNTY NEWS

By S. S. Cassity

The past week has been unusually quiet. The big store of the Kentucky Fire Brick Co., at Haldeman was robbed a few nights since, the robbers gaining entrance through an upper window. A considerable quantity of clothing and provisions was taken besides $16 from the railroad office and all the money in the post office.

There is a mild epidemic of something like "flu" in and around Morehead. Among other victims is Mrs. S. S. Cassity, who has been confined to her bed for several days.

Since Drs. Blair and Robbins moved to Ashland, Dr. G. C. Nickell has had very little time for sleep. Dr. Cavins has lately located here in the hope of building up a practice.

D. B. Caudill, County Attorney, and W. T. Caudill, County Court Clerk, are the only two officers standing for re-election. D. B. Caudill is a Democrat and has served the county faithfully and efficiently the past four years. To him, Judge Arthur Hogge, Judge A. W. Young and Senator S. M. Bradley, is due the credit for the splendid road from Morehead to the Bath county line. These men went into their own pockets and advanced the money required of the county for starting the work, and took care of the pay-roll for several pay-days.

W. T. Caudill is one of the best County Court Clerks in the State. The worst that can be said about him, he is a Republican—the black sheep in the Caudill family; but as a runner he is hard to catch, for I tried him four years ago.

Judge Arthur Hogge who has made a splendid record as County Judge, will retire to the shades of private life next January, leaving the county in a healthy financial condition and carrying with him the plaudits of the people, "well done."

N. L. Wells, than whom there never was a braver, better sheriff, will also hang his "38" on a nail in the wall or turn it over to John Johnson (Democrat) or Hiram Lee Roberts (Republican), which ever wins. Mr. Wells has shirked no responsibility and although he has been in many trying situations, he has never shown the white feather, in pistol combat or otherwise.

We have been patiently waiting for Sam Collins to give us a prohibition officer in the person of App Perry, who is strongly endorsed for the place. All who know Mr. Perry know he is just the man for the place and he is badly needed here.

James L. Nickell is the only member of the old city council standing for re-election. Mr. Nickell is a public-spirited man and has always stood for everything looking to the betterment of civic and moral conditions in Morehead. His running mates are all good men with Dr. H. L. Wilson for Mayor and Editor S. Lee McGowan for Police judge.

Our faithful and efficient deputy town marshal, A. W. Fraley, sustained a slight rupture a few days ago by lifting a keg of molasses. He is still on the job, however and enjoys unqualified hatred of every outlaw in Rowan county.

case of wheat straw, since broom sage and crab grass will settle closely and may smother the plants. The mulching of beds is practiced to conserve moisture, keep down weeds and keep dirt off of the berries during the following season. Best results can be accomplished only when the practice is carefully followed, the specialists say.

Claude Johnson, of Knowlton, was here Wednesday buying corn.

Norval D. Wireman and Mrs. Belle Campbell were married last Tuesday evening at Stanton. We wish for them a long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielder Townsend and Mrs. Lizzie Neal visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Willoughby Friday.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accosted by a local dealer.

"Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality."

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertiser? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."

MORAL—ADVERTISE

Generally speaking, a gambler's political forecasts are the most reliable.
